Daughters of Confederacy in Annual State Convention.

The Eleventh Annual Convention of the Kentucky Division of the Daughters of the Confederacy was called to order by Mrs. Roy McKenney, of Paducah, State President, in the Circuit Court room of our beautiful court house, Wednesday morning, October 9th, at 9:45.

One hundred and sixty-eight delegates and visitors had registered in the Confederate room and quite a number of others arrived during the afternoon and evening.

After the ritual of the U. D. C., which was read by the Chaplain, Miss Froman, Mrs. R. J. Neely, President of the local Chapter welcomed the visitors in the following beautiful address:

"It is my happy privilege in the name of the Richard Hawes Chapter, to greet and welcome you today. It makes my heart glad to see so many of you here and we thank you for coming."

"The fact that we belong to this organization proves that we are proud of the heritage bequeathed to us by our fathers—and, as some one has said, 'by our mothers as well'—for the women of the Confederacy, though exempt from the dangers of the battlefield, did their part no less heroically than did the men. The men gave, or offered to give their lives; the women gave what was dearer than life—the men they loved."

"We are banded together to keep alive the sacred memories of the Confederacy, to minister to the needy veteran, his widow and his orphan, and while we pledge ourselves forever to cherish in our hearts and in the hearts of our children, the glory of the story of the men of the South, we are none the less loyal to our beloved country."

"May no shadow mar the brightness of this gathering and may the blessing of our Heavenly Father, the source of all courage, strength and love, be upon this convention. May He guide and direct its deliberations and keep its ranks free from jealousy and discord, as we view the high and holy cause to which we are concentrated."

"Our hands are outstretched in greeting, and we welcome you to our county, our town, and our homes and to this beautiful temple of justice of which we are justly proud, where as a chapter we have been so kindly and so generously treated by all the officials connected with it. I am sure you are heartily welcomed by them all."

"It is our pleasure to have with us today two mother veterans, who, during the dark days of the sixties, encouraged, equipped and made it possible for a number of young men to enter the Confederate service. It was their mission to bind the wounds and smooth

Millersburg Female College Totally Destroyed By Fire.

The Millersburg Female College was totally destroyed by fire Wednesday morning. The fire originated from a defective flue in the class-room of Miss Sheeler, over the primary department in the rear of the main building, this portion of the structure being frame.

Miss Sheeler is in charge of the chair of mathematics. All the departments of the school were at work.

About ten minutes after nine the fire was discovered by the class in Miss Sheeler's room. The alarm was given and the hand and steam engines were soon on the scene. The flames spread rapidly and in a short time the entire building was enveloped in a sheet of flames. The engines proved inadequate for the occasion, though they did good work, saving the surrounding buildings.

At 10 o'clock a special train arrived from Paris bearing fire engine and part of the fire department from this city, but as the fire had consumed the entire building the Paris department was of no service other than assisting in extinguishing flames in the basements of several of the buildings.

Carlisle had her engine loaded ready to send on train arriving there at ten forty, but was notified that it would not be needed.

There were 68 boarding students in the institution, 15 members of the faculty. Most of the clothing and valuables of students and teachers and some class room fixtures, and a part of the library was saved.

The loss is estimated at $25,000, with about $13,000 insurance.

The citizens of Millersburg and community came to the rescue of Prof. Fisher, and the doors of every home were thrown open to the students and faculty, and all who are still in the town are comfortably housed. Furniture and baggage is stored in many homes, business houses and the basement of the Presbyterian church.

There was a mass meeting of the citizens of the town and community at the opera house Wednesday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, and a nother Thursday afternoon at two o'clock, to devise ways and means for rebuilding and continuing the school. The meetings were very enthusiastic. It will be built and ready for occupancy by September, 1908. An effort is being made to continue the school through the remainder of the scholastic year. That will be determined in the next few days. The Bourbon Hotel and all the buildings on that square will be utilized if suitable arrangements can be made. This is one of the oldest institutions in Central Kentucky, beginning the 57th year of its history, celebrating its jubilee very elaborately seven years ago, and this is the second time it has been destroyed by fire. During Christmas week of 1877, while under the management of Dr. George Gould, the entire building, with the exception of a small part of the ell, was totally destroyed. It was at once rebuilt and a much handsomer structure than the previous one was erected. Two years ago, Prof. C. C. Fisher, present manager, and owner of the property, made long needed improvements. The school bid fair this year to be the best under the management of Prof. Fisher.

The new structure will be up-to-date, with all the modern improvements and conveniences.

Many telegrams have been received by Prof. Fisher from the alumni, which is scattered over many states, offering services and money, saying the alumni will help to rebuild.

TO THE FRIENDS OF EDUCATION IN THE STATE OF KENTUCKY.

The coming election is fraught with unusual interest and importance to the friends of education in Kentucky, especially those who are engaged from day to day in the public schools, in the noblest work that human minds have been entrusted with. Not at any time in the history of the State of Kentucky has there been such a wide-spread sentiment among the people in favor of education, and keeping the schools of Kentucky abreast with the best States of the Union. Never has a political party in the State given such prompt and satisfactory response to the sentiment as has the Democratic party of the State of Kentucky. Through the passage of several laws looking to the advancement of the cause of education and to the elevation of that great profession, teaching, the Democratic party demonstrates its belief that the future growth and development of this great Commonwealth depends largely upon the education and training of the youth in the public schools. As Judge Hager, the Democratic nominee candidate for Governor, said in the opening speech of his campaign, "Hand in hand with the development of our State must go to the education of our sons and daughters. There is no single set of men and women united in a single purpose who can or do render to the State better or greater service than do the self-sacrificing school teachers of our Commonwealth."

While the true teachers will not allow politics to invade his school room, nor enter in any degree whatever in his school work, outside the schoolroom he should make his convictions felt, especially in matters pertaining to education and economics, and to the policy being pursued by the officials and lawmakers of his State. He should not hesitate to make his position clear, for he or she is a leader of thought in the community. The teacher owes it to that community to be conservant with all that is going on in a public way, and to bring some salient facts home to all is the purpose of this article.

POLITICAL PARTY RECORDS COMPARED.

During the four years of Republican administration from 1896 to 1900, the per capita for common schools averaged only 235. That administration left a deficit in the school fund of $147,132.69, and an outstanding debt in addition of $130,820.25. The Republican State Superintendent deserted his office without making his annual report. During the past four years under Democratic administration, the per capita has averaged $3.22, and for the present year it is $3.40, the largest in the history of the Commonwealth; and the records show that the Democratic party has spent $1,781,678.18 more for education than the Republicans did, and it has done it, too, despite the fact that when it took up the reins of government in 1900, it found a deficit in the public Treasury of $1,699,657.50 which it inherited from the Republican administration. Not only has this deficit been paid by the Democratic administration, but it has in addition appropriated for the eleemosynary institutions of the State and for other laudable purposes, $2,514,125.66 more than the Republicans did, and on next January, after paying all outstanding obligations, there will remain in the public treasury the sum of $1,250,000.00; and all this has been done on a tax-rate 2 1/2 cents less than the Republicans had.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOLS.

For several years past the education of the State have sought to establish a system of State Normal Schools, but not until the meeting of the Legislature of 1906 did they present their request for such legislation in a manner that could be intelligently acted upon. At that session of the General Assembly, which was Democratic, two State Normal Schools were established with an annual appropriation of $23,000 each annually for maintenance and $5,000 each for equipment. The present Democratic nominee for Superintendent of Public Instruction, M. O. Winfrey, was an earnest advocate of the State Normal School bill, and its passage was strongly urged by every member of the Democratic Administration from the Governor down.

All these teachers who desire to become professional in their work and reap the richest harvest financially that the profession offers; all those who desire to see Kentucky become one of the leading States of the Union educationally, and all those who propose to make teaching their life work, will be vitally interested in the future of these institutions, their equipment, their extension, and their proper maintenance.

LONGER TERMS FOR COMMON SCHOOLS.

In 1904, the General Assembly, which was Democratic, increased the school term from five to six months. At the same time, it took 3 cents from the Sinking Fund and 1 1/2 cents from the General Fund and transferred both to the School fund, thus raising the School Fund from 22 cents to 25 1/2 cents, as remuneration for this extra month.

SALARY INSTITUTE WEEK.

The Democratic General Assembly of 1906 passed an act which secures to teachers their salaries during the week of the institute. This act alone means $80,000 a year to the school teachers.

SOME OTHER INTERESTING FACTS.

Kentucky, which has always been a Democratic State except from 1896 to 1900, was the first State in the South to establish a system of free schools maintained by the State.

The per capita for Common Schools this year is $3.40, and the amount to be expended on public education is $2,600,000, the largest per capita since Kentucky was admitted into the Union, and the greatest amount expended for public education by any of the States of the Union except four, viz: New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and California. Seventy per cent. of the negroes of Kentucky were illiterate in 1880. In 1900, only 40 per cent were illiterate. Of the white population, 21.8 per cent. were illiterate in 1880, while only 12.7 per cent were illiterate in 1900. That is, in 20 years, there has been a decrease in negro illiteracy of 30 per cent and a decrease in white illiteracy of 9.1 per cent and a decrease in general illiteracy of 13.4 per cent.

We challenge those who are, for political reasons, claiming that Kentucky spends more money for public education and receives poorer results from it than any other State in the Union, to compare the above statistics with that of any other State in the Union, and then to reassert that ugly and unjust reflection upon the work of our public school teachers.

There are in Kentucky, nearly quarter of a million negroes, who pay little of the taxes, yet they get the same educational advantages as the white people. There are among these negroes 74,728 voters.

Another condition which handicaps the educational advancement of Kentucky is her mountain district, which is sparsely settled, the people remote from railroads and telegraphs, school districts large, and the people poor. On account of the conditions above mentioned, it is very difficult to extend the blessings of public education, but the State of Kentucky has never shirked her duty. She has made the more favored section of the State help to bear the burden of educating the children of the mountains.

FUTURE LEGISLATION.

Every teacher is vitally interested in at least five things, viz: Better school houses, better equipment, longer terms, larger salaries and a stronger recognition of the dignity and responsibility of the profession of teaching.

It has been said that "Nothing succeeds like success." When the teachers of the State, through their organization, appeared before the Democratic General Assembly in 1906, that Assembly passed every educational bill presented by them. The teachers are now looking forward to the passage of acts increasing the school term from 6 to 8 months, establishing a minimum salary of not less than $40 per month, providing for a system of County High Schools. The teachers of the mountain section of the State are especially interested in these same measures.

The securing of these results largely depends upon wise legislation. The teachers then, are necessarily interested most in the election of that political party which has shown by its past record that it favors legislation which will build up all our educational institutions, and which will promote the best interests of the teaching profession.

The Passing of the Common People.

"Thar aint no common peopel any more; they've all got rich or become uncommon. Some are hired by the trusts, some are peddlin' insurance, an' some are retailin' sick chickens an' rancid butter. Them that stay on the farm know a lot more about cow-ticks than they once did. Take 'em all in all, up one side an' down the other, an' under the bed for good luck, they aint got the sense that the'r granddaddies had. They're lots more progressive, an' they're more highly civilized; but when you bile them big words down, what do they mean? Why, jes this: that they aint no way of swindlin' one another that they aint ketched on to. When you talk about political principles an' little things like that, all eyes are on the board, for to see what the rake-off is a-gwineter fall. The blue-colic gent has e'en about made his appearance, an' his place has been took by the feller that drives a lightning-rod suiky an' marries a new gal in ever' county. Ol' things have passed away, an' the new have hove in sight w' the pirate flag a flutterin' to the four winds."—Joel Chandler Harris in Uncle Remus's Magazine for October.

Bryan's Tour Closed.

"Since I have shown my interest by coming from far off Nebraska to assist in fighting the battles of the Kentucky Democracy that Judge Hager and his associates on the State ticket may be elected, and that Governor Beckham may be sent to the United States Senate, can not you Democrats show an equal interest by going to your voting places on election day in November and seeing that your party obtains the benefit of your support?"

With this vigorous appeal to the Democrats of the Gibraltar district, William Jennings Bryan Tuesday concluded his two days' tour of the State in which he has employed every means at the command of his wonderful power and every argument of his matchless eloquence to awaken the Kentucky Democrats to encourage the Democracy of the nation with a magnificent victory this year, as a forerunner of the stand which Kentucky will take for reform in national affairs next year in a national Democratic victory.

The crowds which gathered in the rain and mud to greet the national leader exceeded the most sanguine expectations of the State leaders.

Want Another Election.

Two petitions were filed in the Madison county clerk's office at Richmond, Tuesday, by the whisky men, one from the county calling an election to be held in the various precincts on the 10th of December, and one from the city asking that an election for the same date as that of the county in which to again vote on the question whether or not Richmond shall have back her saloons.

Will Withdraw From Carlisle.

At the meeting of the Carlisle Council, held Tuesday evening, the question as to whether or not the East Tennessee Telephone Company should be granted a franchise to operate their lines in Nicholas county, was to be decided. The committee reported an ordinance giving the company the right to charge what is called by that company the standard rate. The ordinance reported by the city attorney did not receive a motion to consider it and was not passed, all of the councilmen being unwilling to give the company the right to increase the rate.

It is said the Company has been running at a loss in Carlisle and will now withdraw from that city.

Verdict Set Aside.

The verdict in the case of Charles J. Bronston vs. Morehead & Co., of Cincinnati, has been set aside and a new trial ordered.

It will be recalled that Col. Bronston brought suit some time ago against the brokerage firm of Morehead & Company in Cincinnati for the sum of $29,000, which he lost in speculating on margins, attaching that amount in the First National Bank of that city to satisfy the suit. Upon trial of the case the jury found for Morehead & Company, contrary to Judge Hosea's instructions.

Nicholas Has Republican Candidate.

The Republicans of Nicholas county have decided to place in the field a candidate for the office of Representative. During the past week a petition was quietly circulated throughout Nicholas county among the Republicans for the purpose of securing the required number of names for placing the name of J. W. Kenton, one of the prominent Republicans of Nicholas county, on the ballot as a candidate for the Legislature from that district.

THEATRICAL.

AL. H. (METZ) WILSON.

Golden-voiced singer Al. H. Wilson, who is frequently referred to as the Ambassador of German dialect, will be seen at the Paris Grand on Saturday evening, Oct. 12, at which time he will present for the enjoyment of our local theatre-goers the new "Metz in the Alps," which is said to be a good play in more ways than one, for besides containing a story of great heart interest, magnificent scenery and startling electrical effects, it affords ample opportunity for Mr. Wilson to sing.

and to hear Wilson sing is a pleasure not soon to be forgotten. Like Eugene Fields' "Peach of Emerald Hue" Wilson's sung entwine themselves around the heart strings of human nature so completely that they never fail to cause them to beat in responsive unison. Mr. Wilson's repertoire of songs this season contains several titles, such as "Fairest Flower of All" and "Switzer Le Boy" that are entirely new and which will be heard in this city for the first time during Mr. Wilson's forthcoming engagement.

HAS A MAGIC POWER.

The engagement of the near future that focuses attention irresistibly is that of Fred G. Conrad's fine Company in "Monte Cristo," which will be seen at the Opera House, Paris, Kentucky, Tuesday, October 15th. The name
 "Monte Cristo," will always have a magic power to arouse interest and doubtless this season, as in all other seasons extending back a generation, many thousands of people will go to see the famous Dumas hero and hear him shout, "The World is Mine." So many of us want the earth that we are delighted to watch one man getting it.
 Mr. Conrad has had unlimited experience in producing "Monte Cristo" and his especial care is shown in his use of
 Wm. Lemle's arrangement of the play.
 Mr. Lemle will be remembered by most people interested in the drama,
 as one of the most talented and scholarly actors on the American stage. In his thoroughness and high ideals he belongs virtually to the old school, and it was in this way of thinking and doing that he prepared and starred in "Monte Cristo" under Mr. Conrad's management. When we go to the theater to see this famous character, we want to see him in the play as prepared by Mr. Lemle and presented by Mr. Conrad's Company, we can expect to see him step from the pages of romance to the footlights in the full power and dignity of his personality.

The Al. H. "Metz" Wilson Company, which will play in Paris on tomorrow night is making some big jumps this season, playing only the larger cities, and Manager Borland should be congratulated in securing this attraction.
 They come from Portsmouth, O., here,
 then to McCauley's Theater, Louisville,
 for three nights, then to Lexington, Nashville and St. Louis.

LIVE STOCK AND CROP NOTES

—D. C. Lisle sold privately for his father, Claiborne Lisle, 51 acres of land, same being part of the George Hill farm on the Gazo Hill pike, to W. O. Shropshire for $70 per acre.
 This piece of land which has only moderate improvements, sold five years ago for $50 per acre.

—G. C. Thompson bought of Maurice and Jonas Weil fifty-four 900-pound feeders at 44 cents per pound.

—John S. Talbott sold to Robert Meter, of Hutchison, twenty-two 1,050 pound feeding cattle at $4.50 per
 one hundred pounds.

—At the court house door, Auctioneer George D. Speakes sold for Master Commissioner Russell Mann, the John T. Speakes farm of 50 acres on the Paris and Riddles Mills pike No. 2, to Ora Speakes, for $71.05 per acre.

—Auctioneer A. T. Forsyth rented at public outcry, for Hume & Payne, 71 acres of land with improvements, on the Winchester pike, to W. H. Wood for $701.

—E. H. Blake, of Centerville, sold to Amos Hammon, of Scott county, seventeen 1,250-pound cattle for delivery the latter part of the month at 5 cents per pound, and four 1,100 pound fat heifers at 44 cents per pound.

—H. B. and M. H. Clay sold to W.
 H. Renick, for Simon O'Donnell, of Pittsburg, Pa., thirty 1,450-pound extra fancy export cattle at $5.80 per
 one hundred pounds.

—Mrs. D. G. Taylor has rented the Sam Bedford farm containing 415 acres and lying on the Hume & Bedford pike to W. H. Robert, of Broadwell, Ky., for $1,900. She also rented the John Wright farm of 100 acres on the same pike to Homer Hutchison for $500.

—John Brophy has re-rented of John T. Hinton the G. G. White farm on the North Middletown pike containing 547 acres for $3,000. Mr. Brophy will cultivate 10 acres of tobacco, 100 acres of corn, 100 acres of wheat, with 90 acres in meadow and the remainder in grass.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases. If we would properly investigate them, and in destruction of this conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovey," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver instigator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Dyspepsia, or indigestion, torpid liver, functional and even varicose and other affections of the heart, yield to its curative action. The reason why it cures these and many other affections, is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R.
 V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., to all sending request for the same.

Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing discharges, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unimpeachable testimonials contributed by careful patients who have been cured of all or several of the following ailments:
 irregularities, prolapsus, and other displacements caused by weakness, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines, and physicians had failed.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle-wrapper.

Famous Lilac Tree.

Chief among the many objects of interest in the gardens of Easton Lodge, Dunmow, the residence of the Earl and Countess of Warwick, is the magnificent lilac tree which occupies a conspicuous position on the terrace. This tree is the finest specimen of its kind in the United Kingdom. It has a circumference of 120 feet and a height of sixteen feet, and it has so dense a growth and blooms so profusely that when in flower it forms a huge bou-quet of lilac blossoms.

The lilac is that commonly known as the Persian and described by the botanists as the Chinese, but it is not a native of either Persia or China, but was raised in the Rouen botanic garden in 1705 by the hybridization of the true Persian lilac and the common lilac of British gardens.

It was of noble proportions at the middle of the last century and produced such a magnificent display of blossoms that in the flowering season Viscount Maynard, Lady Warwick's grandfather, used to make a special journey from London to enjoy the beauty and fragrance of the flowers.—

Lunches in Germany.

I was told at $20 it was time for luncheon, writes an American tinsmith working in Leipzig. On stating that I did not care to eat, he told me that it would be better if I did no work, so I sat down for half an hour and watched the others. At noon we had an hour and a half and at 4 o'clock fifteen minutes for lunch.

It may be of interest to some readers to know what the German eats.
 For his first breakfast he generally has a milk roll and a cup of coffee.
 The second breakfast is almost always a slice of bread with lard or goose oil, a piece of sausage or cheese and a bottle of beer. For dinner he has two slices of bread as above, with a herring or large green pickle, cheese or sausage and another bottle of beer.
 For lunch another bottle of beer and a milk roll. For supper soup and potatoes.

This is the general variety of foods
 we had for the four months I worked in that shop, and they had it day in and day out.—New York World.

When He Enjoyed Life.

Among the tombs near the old Arlington mansion on the Chesapeake is the mausoleum of John Custis, the father of Martha Washington's first husband. It bears this suggestive inscription:

Beneath this Marble Tomb lies ye Body of the Honorable John Custis, Esq.
 Of the City of Williamsburg and Parish of Burton
 Formerly of Hungers Parish on the Eastern Shore
 Virginia and the County of Northampton
 the Place of his Nativity.
 Aged 71 years, and yet lived but seven years.

Which was the space of time he kept
 A Bachelor's House at Arlington
 On the Eastern Shore of Virginia.
 It is said that before his marriage
 Custis did have a free and easy life.
 His marriage was of importance to his country, for he was the progenitor of several leading families. One would like to know Mrs. Custis' version of the life they had together, which he regarded as unworthy to be called living.—Youth's Companion.

Finding a Grave With an Egg.

The Miao-tze, a little known tribe in Asia, are very superstitious about death and will not bury a man until they have first tested the ground with an egg. This operation is very curious.
 While the body is being prepared for burial a number of Miao-tze, including the male relatives of the deceased, go out to the appointed spot bearing a large basket of eggs. Stooping down, one of the natives lets an egg drop softly on the ground. If it breaks it is considered an ill omen, and another spot is selected. In this way the party often wander about for hours, breaking eggs over the ground until they finally strike a place where the shell does not crack.

Convicted of Wife Murder.

The jury at Chattanooga in the case of Ed. Turner, of Breathitt county, Ky., charged with the murder of his wife on the side of Lookout Mountain by cutting her throat, in April last, brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree after being out only a few minutes. On the stand Turner confessed to the murder. He showed no interest in the verdict.

Do Business Women Elevate Their Associates?

"One of the most vital results of the presence of women in business," says Anna Steele Richardson in the Woman's Home Companion for October, "is the tendency of the average girl of natural refinement and good home training to harden and coarsen under the influences of store or office life than to raise the tone of their environment by her own gentle breeding. 'I believe there are women who exert a good influence in the offices and stores where they work, but they are the exception, not the rule. They have such nobility of character, such rare natures, that they would be a power for good anywhere under any conditions. But, alas, the average woman wage earner has only the average moral and mental nature, and she can no more be a power for good in business than in the home. On the other hand, I firmly believe that the presence in business of thousands of silly, inexperienced, unbalanced girls in lowering the standard of manhood and womanhood all over the land. Barrier after barrier is going down before the familiarity of business life, and already many of the large corporations, like the life insurance companies, have found it necessary to separate the men and women during the working hours, to supply them with separate elevators. Does this look as if the refining, elevating influence of women had stood the test of a generation of freedom and equality in the wage-earning field?"

and to hear Wilson sing is a pleasure not soon to be forgotten. Like Eugene Fields' "Peach of Emerald Hue" Wilson's sung entwined themselves around the heart strings of human nature so completely that they never fail to cause them to beat in responsive unison. Mr. Wilson's repertoire of songs this season contains several titles, such as "Fairest Flower of All" and "Switzer Le Boy" that are entirely new and which will be heard in this city for the first time during Mr. Wilson's forthcoming engagement.

While the body is being prepared for burial a number of Miao-tze, including the male relatives of the deceased, go out to the appointed spot bearing a large basket of eggs. Stooping down, one of the natives lets an egg drop softly on the ground. If it breaks it is considered an ill omen, and another spot is selected. In this way the party often wanders about for hours, breaking eggs over the ground until they finally strike a place where the shell does not crack.

The building was burned to the ground and the inmates only escaped with their lives in their night robes.

—Mrs. Elizabeth Scarce, of Chillicothe, O., Mc. Thomas Vimont, of Illinois; Mr. William Vimont and daughter, Miss Lottie, of Louisville; Miss Mary Richardson and Mrs. Chas. Bean, of Lexington; Judge and Mrs. Harmon Stitt and Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Forsyth, of Paris, were among the out-of-town people who attended the funeral of Miss Charlotte Vimont.

—Mrs. E. M. Ingels gave an elaborate dining Sunday in honor of the anniversary of the birth of herself and her twin brother, Mr. H. E. Ross, of Lexington. The house was appropriately decorated and the dining table laden with all the good things of the market. It was a family reunion, and the following members were present: Mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Ross, of Carlisle; brothers and families, Mr. H. E. Ross, of Lexington; W. P. Ross and family; James B. Ross and family, of Carlisle.

—Miss Charlotte Vimont, aged about 78 years, died at her home at 1:30 a. m., Tuesday of an attack of paralysis. She was stricken at 4 o'clock p. m. Monday. She had complained of a cold since Saturday, but it was not supposed anything of a serious nature. She was the granddaughter of Louis Vimont, a French Huguenot, who was compelled by persecution to flee to this country.

He became quite a factor in the development of his adopted State, as he was contractor and built quite a number of sections of the Maysville and Lexington turnpike and also other roads in adjoining counties. He accumulated quite a property, became engaged in the mercantile business, built a large brick building situated on Vimont street, and now known as the St. James.

He loaded and sent many flat boats from Johnson Fork of Licking Run to New Orleans. The father, Jefferson T. Vimont, was a merchant during his life time and died in the large stone building occupied by the daughter as a residence. Her mother was also of French descent, name Elizabeth Barbara Minter, whose sister, Mary Minter became the wife of Tom Clay, the son of the great confederer, Henry Clay.

She is survived by two brothers, William Vimont, of Des Moines, Iowa, and Thomas Jefferson Vimont, a merchant, of Paxton, Ill., and a sister, Lizzie, who was living with the deceased. Miss Vimont leaves a large and influential connection in this and adjoining States.

She has been a life long member of the Presbyterian church, and leaves quite an estate, and her home perhaps contains as many valuable curios as any in Kentucky. Many of them of rare French artistic articles reaching back for two centuries. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. H. L. Laird, of Linden, Ky., assisted by Rev. R. S. Sanders.

Cutting Affray.

It was reported yesterday that Mr. Lyle Jacoby was severely cut in a difficulty with a man by the name of Hill. We were unable to get full particulars, but it was said that Mr. Jacoby was driving some cattle in front of a field on the Joyce farm, near town, when several of them got over into the field. Mr. Jacoby was trying his best to get them out of the field when Mr. Hill, who lives on the place, came up and the two engaged in a difficulty. Jacoby knocked Hill down with the handle of his whip and Hill cut him with a knife on the wrist and made several ugly slashes through the breast of his coat.

Paris Commercial Club.

There is a movement on foot to once more organize a Commercial Club in this city. We have on numerous occasions urged this matter and tried to show what an advantage such a club would be to Paris. If our merchants will only investigate and see what results are coming from the Commercial Clubs in our surrounding cities, they will not hesitate one minute in joining the enterprising men that have the movement under consideration at this time.

It is now proposed to organize with twenty-five of our business men, if no more can be secured, who will agree to pay a fee of $1 each per month. This money to go in advertising the advantages of Paris to manufacturers who are daily looking for suitable location. There is now a large furniture manufacturing plant that is desirable of locating in this section, and with little encouragement from our business men it can be secured.

Each plant of this kind works from fifty to one hundred men and if Paris could get a number located here it is easily seen that every kind of business in our city will be benefited.

The time has come for us to wake up and go to work and not sit idly by and see our neighbors get all of these big plants that have been falling from the tree. It is truly hoped that the Paris Commercial Club will be a fixture after this effort to reorganize it.

Will Probated.

The will of the late Mary C. Hoon was probated in the County Court Monday. The testator leaves her estate, consisting of a house and lot corner Thirteenth and Main streets, and personal property, to Mrs. Jennie Ellis. The document is dated May 18, 1907, and is witnessed by Mattie Cottingham and J. T. Vansant. The beneficiary of the will was not related to the deceased but for some time prior to her death cared for her. There are a number of near and distant relatives and it is said an effort will be made by suit in the Circuit Court to break the will. The value of the estate is about $4,000, the property extending through from Main to High streets. It is claimed by the relatives of the deceased that she only held a life interest in the property, as the will of Mrs. Hoon's mother shows.

IT'S ALWAYS BAD.

The Best of Backs are Bad When They Ache, and Paris People Know It.

A bad back is always bad. Bad at night when bedtime comes, just as bad in the morning. Ever try Doan's Kidney Pills for it? Know they cure backache—cure every kidney ill?

If you don't some Paris people do. Read a case of it: Mrs. J. T. Martin, living on Pleasant street, Paris, Ky., says: "I was seriously injured a few years ago as the result of a fall. Across the small of my back was rendered very weak and lame and my kidneys became affected. The pains I suffered through my kidneys were most distressing and alarming. I doctored with many different kidney medicines but did not receive any marked benefit until using Doan's Kidney Pills which I procured at J. A. Wilson's drug store. They have been of great benefit to me, and my general condition is greatly improved. Doan's Kidney Pills are certainly an excellent kidney remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—DOAN'S—and take no other.

Tells How to Mix It.

A well-known authority on Rheumatism gives the readers of a large New York daily paper the following valuable, yet simple and harmless prescription, which one can easily prepare at home:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Karsin, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Mix by shaking well in a bottle, and take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

He states that the ingredients can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost, and being vegetable extraction, are harmless to take.

This pleasant mixture, if taken regularly for a few days, is said to overcome almost any case of rheumatism. The pain and swelling, if any, diminishes with each dose, until permanent results are obtained, and without injuring the stomach. While there are many so-called Rheumatism remedies, patent medicines, etc., some of which do give relief, few really give permanent results, and the above will no doubt, be greatly appreciated by many sufferers here at this time.

Inquiry at the drug stores of this neighborhood elicits the information that these drugs are harmless and can be bought separately, or the drugists here will mix the prescription for our readers if asked to.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed. Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists. 75 cents. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

A Testimonial For Veracity.

"It's a mighty fine thing to have a character for truthfulness," remarked O'Grady when he returned home the other evening.

"Indade an' it is that same," agreed Mrs. O'Grady, with an approving nod, as she hauled one child out of the fender and scraped the cinders off his frock. "An' what makes ye say that, Phelim?"

"Cause me master believes in me veracity intirely," was the response of Phelim. He lighted his short pipe and took his accustomed seat on a broken chair near the chimney. "I tould him this morning that I couldn't help being late an' that I had run a mottle in a minute an' a half to get there in toime. An' what do ye think he said?"

"Mebbe that ye desarved another sixpence a week."

"Better than that. These are his very words. 'O'Grady,' ses he, 'O' wud just as soon believe ye if ye sed ye had done it in half a minute.' So ye see what faith he has in me veracity intirely."—London Answers.

Reading the Face.

Restless eyes denote a deceitful, designing disposition; greenish eyes mean falsehood, malice and a love of scandal; blue eyes tell of tendency to coquetry; black eyes mean a lively, spirited and sometimes deceitful character; eyes with a yellowish, bloodshot white usually betoken strong emotions and hot temper; gray eyes mean dignity and intelligence and brown eyes a tender, true, kind and happy nature. A mouth had better be too large than too small, for a very small, pursed up mouth is seldom significant of good conversational power. Large mouths are more often found in conjunction with liberal dispositions than very small ones. A person with a pointed chin is fanciful, refined in taste and difficult to please. A broad, square chin signifies ardent love, often accompanied by jealousy. A broad, round chin means ardent love, with a steadfastness and purity of affection.

When Did You Oil Your Watch?

When did you oil your watch last? Never? You may remember when you lubricated your sewing machine, typewriter, lawn mower or grindstone—within a year, probably—but your watch you never oiled, that you can remember. Yet in a period of eighteen months the balance wheel turns on its axis 13,906,800,000 times. Expert watchmakers say that a watch should be thoroughly cleaned and oiled every eighteen months. Many persons wear a watch for years, winding it up each night, and never oil it. Watches are instruments of uncertain age; some run indefinitely, keeping accurate time, without need of repairs. As a matter of fact, nothing is so neglected as this small, delicate and useful instrument. —North American.

Blond Indians.

One of the mysteries of Mexico is presented by the Maya Indians, who inhabit the Sierra Madre mountains in the lower part of Sonora. They have fair skins, blue eyes and light hair, and students of ethnology have always been puzzled to account for them. There is a tradition, however, that these Indians are the descendants of the crew and passengers of a Swedish vessel wrecked on the Mexican coast centuries before Columbus discovered the new world. But this tradition is founded on nothing more substantial than a folklore tale current among them that their ancestors came over the big salt water hundreds of moons ago.

A Frog of Peculiar Habits.

South America has a frog of peculiar habits. Dwelling in the virgin forests, at the tops of the highest trees, it chooses as a site for its nursery some hollow stump and then proceeds to line it with resin procured from trees in the neighborhood. This lining serves to catch and hold the rainwater, with which it quickly becomes filled. As soon as this takes place the eggs are laid therein, and here they undergo development into tadpoles. How the resin is collected is a mystery, nor is it yet known how the separate pieces become welded to form the water tight basin necessary to insure the safety of the treasures deposited therein.

Something of That Kind.

"Young man," said the serious gentleman, "did you ever pause and think that each tick of the clock brings you another moment nearer to the end of your existence?"

"I was thinking of something of that kind this very minute," cheerfully replied the youth, "only the idea struck me that each tick brought pay day that much nearer."

A Puzzler.

An old white haired dandy living on a plantation, not feeling well, had the doctor pay him a visit. The doctor told him as he was getting old he must eat plenty of chicken and stay out of damp night air. "But, sah," said the old dandy, "how can you expect me to stay in de house at night and still get my chickens?"

His Rising Day.

"He never did rise in the world till he stumbled over a lot of dynamite," the village gossip said, "an' even then, like so many men in the risin' business, he never did know what he riz fer!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Health Recipe.

The Canary's Mission.

By Virginia Leila Wentz.

Copyright, 1907, by E. C. Parcella.

George Charlemagne Tower rang for his landlady, with an impatient frown on his scholastic brow. As she entered his library she found him pacing up and down the Bokhara rug.

"That person who's rented your room back there?" he began.

"A young girl, sir," ventured Mrs. Martin.

—"Must part with that infernal canary," he went on, ignoring the information, "or either she or I will have to leave. For three days now I've listened to its noise till I'm in such a state of mind that I can't evolve a single clear thought or reason syllogistically. It's absurd."

Mrs. Martin hadn't perhaps the faintest idea what the "evolution of a clear thought" meant nor what "syllogistic reasoning" implied, but she had a most excellent idea of what George Charlemagne Tower's occupation of the best part of her apartment meant and what his threat implied. For five years now he had been her model star lodger, a bachelor and a heart whole man. She had come to look upon him as a comfortable fixture and so had her husband, who was something of an idler, having found no position in life exactly suited to his gifted irresponsibilities.

"Miss Clemmens—that's the young girl, sir—won't part with her canary, I know," observed the landlady nervously, picking up a paperweight. "She's uncommonly fond of the bird, but I'll tell her I'd like the room when her week's up." Mrs. Martin laid down the paperweight with the air of a martyr.

"Very well," grunted Mr. Tower, pulling up the shade of his library's back window with a jerk so that the morning sunlight struck like gold upon the big rubber plant. Then he opened the window. It was very warm in the room. "Suppose I'll have to stand the nuisance a few days longer. That's all. Good morning." He sat down at his mahogany desk with an air of dismissal and drew some papers toward him.

"I'M YOUR NEW NEIGHBOR, GRACIOA CLEMENS."

As he bent over his manuscripts, goose quill in hand, suddenly there sounded the whirr of tiny wings in the stillness of the room, and there on the very sunniest leaf of his rubber plant perched a little yellow canary.

After an alert, coquettish inspection of the room and its occupant the bird lifted its slender neck and emitted several penetrating chirps; then it filled its lungs with air, its soft chest expanded, and it burst into a gust of song.

"Come in, come in," called Mr. Tower brusquely in response to a knock upon his half closed door. He looked up over his glasses. There, straight and slender and very, very young, stood a girl, the splendid morning light bathing her and turning the bronze of her soft hair to fire.

"You see—my canary," she explained. "I was giving him a bath, and he spied your plant in the sunlight, and—Will you close your window, please, and let me coax him back? I'm your new neighbor, Gracioa Clemmens, in Mrs. Martin's back room there." She nodded prettily over her shoulder, down the side of the long apartment.

"Gracioa!" ejaculated Mr. George Charlemagne Tower half to himself as he closed the window. There had never been but one of that name outside the covers of the old green fairy book. That one was a girl he had known in Yale in his freshman year. At that tender age she had been sufficiently older than he to lay siege upon his susceptibilities. Lordy, Lordy, how far away that seemed now! "She was a Miss Barr," he said reflectively, fingering his watch chain as he looked at the girl coaxing the canary, "and she went west."

"Uh-huh," acquiesced the girl brightly; "that's where she met father." The bird flew to her shoulder, and with one hand she covered it daintily and bent down her coral lips to caress its tiny, fluffy head. "But how ever did you come to know mother? Think I look like her?"

"Very much indeed," said the man gravely, answering the last question. "Only prettier," he added mentally.

looking down confusedly on the fine white parting that separated the burnished golden waves of hair.

"She's disturbed my train of thought," he said helplessly after she had disappeared. "So her mother died when she was a baby, and she's all alone in the world, poor child!"

For the next hour George Charlemagne Tower scribbled away idly over his desk—idly, for visions of a goddess with burnished hair got mixed up with everything he wrote. Finally he pressed the electric button. When Mrs. Martin appeared, he explained to her that he'd changed his mind about the canary—rather fancied he liked its singing, after all—so she need not disturb herself about complaining to its owner. She had not already done so, he hoped.

Mrs. Martin's kindly, motherly face beamed. No, she had not. She was deferring that unpleasant mission till evening. Miss Clemmens went out to work every morning. That was she who closed the hall door a half hour ago. And she was afraid it might upset the poor girl for the day's duties, telling her just as she left, etc.

When Mrs. Martin had gone, the bachelor straightened up and laughed, and with the laugh he was transformed. He pushed his pen and ink away, put the paperweight over his unfinished manuscript, strode into the hall and rang for the lift with the swagger of youth. His slightly bent, scholarly walk was discarded. What man could be old with a face like Gracioa's in his heart?

A day or two later when he found that this embodiment of youth was "motherly Mamie" of the Young Girls' Embroidery Bazaar and that her duties were to lead the young maid into the mysteries of purling, drop stitch and sentiment he acknowledged that there was some humor in life, after all.

Life was not only humorous; it was gradually becoming luminous as well. Gone were the days when his desk and his books were Mr. Tower's sole companions. In the daytime now he often listened to the song of the canary and lived in thoughts of its owner. In the evenings he was allowed to chat with the girl herself.

Mrs. Martin watched the growing romance with self-effacing interest, and on many a cozy evening spent around the log fire in the library grate she would invent some excuse and absent herself so that the two might be alone.

The bachelor had fingered his glasses nervously when he asked the question of questions, and when in her cool, confident little way the girl had said "No" he urged no further.

"I understand," he said to himself that night as he dropped his head down on the desk, "I am too—too old. Such a fool to dream of it!"

The girl, however, in the privacy of her room, wore a wistful, sad little face. Now and then a tear would fall with a splash.

"He doesn't seem so awfully, awfully old, Blix," she pleaded, going up to the cage where the canary slept with his head tucked unresponsively under his wing. "How could I do without him now? He never guesses how this silly little heart of mine listens for his step in the hall or the sound of his voice, nor how it flutters when it hears them. Is it so very, very dreadful, Blix, to marry a man who thinks he's too old? I wonder if"—Her sentence trailed off indistinguishably as she knelt to say her prayers.

But she didn't wonder long. Mrs. Martin wouldn't let her. And so on the following Sunday she tripped into the library carrying her canary cage. Blix wasn't feeling very well, and she had promised him a sun bath by the rubber plant.

As Mr. George Charlemagne Tower hung the cage he seemed overwhelmingly happy. Evidently that cool, confident little "No" had been withdrawn for the purpose of amendment—it would have been even safe to guess that a "Yes" had been supplied. Gracioa had nestled herself into a big leather chair near the fire, as if she intended to stay there forever. It was a way she had—one of the many ways her lover had found so ineffably charming. Possibly other girls had them too. He didn't know.

He stood before her for a second; then, stooping, his two patrician hands framed each side of her oval face, he turned it up to his.

"Think, dear," he said, "you might have come and stopped awhile and gone—just like the dozen and one other occupants of that room back there—"

"If it hadn't been for Blix," twinkled she, dimpling divinely.

"Precious little Blix!" ejaculated he, his voice lost somewhere among the cells of the girl's fluffy hair.

And the canary, forgetting he wasn't feeling well, extended his slender body, filled his tiny lungs with air and sang pompously. It was, for all the world, as if he were proud of the mission he had performed.

Useless Tom.

Carlyle's severest critic and a critic of his own school was an old parish roadman at Ecclefechan.

"Been a long time in this neighborhood?" asked an English tourist.

"Been here a' ma days, sir."

"Then you'll know the Carlyles?"

"Weel that! A ken the whole of them. There was, let me see," he said, leaning on his shovel and pondering, "there was Jock; he was a kind o' thoroughbred sort o' chap, a doctor, but no a bad fellow, Jock—he's deid, mon."

"And there was Thomas," said the inquirer eagerly.

"Oh, aye, of course, there's Tam—a useless, mune struck chap that writes in London. There's naething in him; but, mon, there's Jamie, owre in the Nowlands—there's a chap for ye. Jamie takes mair swine into Ecclefechan market than anyither farmer I the parish."—London Answers.

HAPPY MARRIAGES.

Value of the Spirit of Compromise In Wedded Life.

If marriage meant the wedding of a salut and an angel there would be no problems to solve, no perfections to attain, no progress to make. This may be why there are no marriages in heaven.

On earth it is different. Husband and wife are strongly human. No matter how lovingly united or how sweet their accord, they never have the same temperaments, tendencies or tastes.

Their needs are different, their manner of looking at things is not identical and in varying ways their individualities assert themselves. At any critical moment if both express at the same time a desire to defer to the other's taste the result is foreordained—happiness. This makes matrimony not merely union, but union and unity.

The spirit of compromise does not mean a continuous performance in the way of self surrender and self sacrifice; it does not mean ceasing to be a voice and becoming an echo; it does not imply or justify the loss of individuality. It means simply the instinctive recognition of the best way out of a difficulty, the quickest tacking to avoid a collision, the kindly view of tolerance in the presence of weakness and errors of another, the courage to meet an explanation half way, the generosity to be first to apologize for a discord, the largeness of mind that does not fear a sacrifice of dignity in surrendering in the interests of the highest harmony of the two rather than the personal vanity.—Delineator.

ALWAYS CHEERFUL.

Even When He Lost Both Feet He Could Find Consolation.

Brown's cheerfulness was a source of wonder and admiration to his friends, according to the Ladies' Home Journal. Either his religion or his philosophy taught him to accept everything as a wise dispensation. But then he had a large share of worldly goods, his friends argued, and nothing but adversity would shake his faith.

Therefore when a promising crop was washed away by a flood the neighbors were much astonished to hear him say: "It's all for the best. I was blessed with an overabundance last year."

In the winter his house was burned to the ground. To his neighbors' solicitations he calmly responded, "The house never suited us anyway, so it is all for the best."

Other calamities befell Brown, but still he refused to be disheartened.

The climax came when he was in a railroad accident. Both feet were so badly crushed that amputation was necessary.

Sympathetic friends gathered from all quarters. They dreaded to hear the lamentations they were sure would greet them, for even Brown could hardly be expected to pass this lightly by.

"Guess you are pretty well discouraged, aren't you, with both feet cut off?" ventured some one. "Do you think this is all for the best?"

But Brown nodded his head, smiling wanly, and said: "They were always cold anyway!"

The Other Way Around.

The loyalty of the Scottish highlander to his kilt is a picturesque thing. He will never admit that it makes him cold, and highlanders who were suffering from cold in the ordinary dress of civilization have been known to substitute the kilt for it in order to get warm, though this would be much like removing one's coat and waistcoat and rolling up one's shirt sleeves for the same purpose.

It is said that a stranger, seeing a soldier in full highlander uniform shivering in a cold wind, asked him:

"Sandy, are you cold with the kilt?" "Na, na, mon," the soldier answered indignantly, "but I'm nigh kilt with the cauld."

Labor of Ants.

It would perhaps be pushing metaphors to an unwarranted extreme to speak of "dignity of labor" in connection with the occupations of ants. But if by the phrase we mean that labor is the honorable lot of all citizens and that all labors of what sort are upon the same level of respectability then we might venture to apply the saying even to the labors of an ant hill. For therein all are workers, from the newly fledged callow to the veteran of a second summer.—Harper's Magazine.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS

"No, Sir! You cannot palm off any substitutes on me. I've been using August Flower since I was a boy, and I'll have no other."

Forty million bottles of August Flower sold in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is still growing. Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unflinching success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the worst enemies of health and happiness?

Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders—that it is the best of all liver regulators?

August Flower has a matchless record of over 35 years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints.

the aching brows of many prisoners located in our town.

"I refer to our own Mrs. Henrietta Hamilton Williams, the mother of the Hamilton Guards, and to our own Mrs. Sarah Short, a member of the Richard Hawes Chapter since its organization, who has favored us with several interesting papers concerning the thrilling experiences of those dark days. These papers we have placed in our archives as treasured mementoes. I extend to you a most hearty greeting from this veteran mother, now in her eighty-third year.

"Again we extend to you a most cordial welcome to our hearts, to our homes and to the best we have. When this convention shall have passed into the yesterday, may you stay with us have been so pleasant and so profitable that you will come again."

The response was made by Mrs. I. McF. Blakemore, of Christian county, and the audience was then charmed by the rendition of some beautiful Southern melodies by Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Long. Then followed an able address by the State President, in which she gave an outline of the object of the order and the work which has been accomplished by the Kentucky Division, one of which is to place in the hands of Kentucky children a true history of the Confederacy.

Mrs. Wm. G. Talbot, of Paris, then gave the report of the credential committee. Mrs. John L. Woodbury, of Louisville, Recording Secretary, followed with a splendid report in which she stated that during the year three new chapters had been formed and 712 names added to the roll. The reports of the Corresponding Secretary and the Registrar who were unavoidably absent, were also read by Mrs. Woodbury. Mrs. F. S. Allen, of Sharpshurg, State Treasurer, gave a report which showed that, after the expenditure of a good sum for various worthy causes, a neat balance remained in bank.

Mrs. J. H. Menogue, of Lexington, Chairman of the Auditing Committee, then gave her report, which stated that after the examination of the books it was their pleasure to verify the Treasurer's report.

Mrs. J. M. Arnold, of Newport, Recorder of Crosses, rendered a report which was received with hearty applause. A few chapter reports followed. The meeting then adjourned and the delegates and visitors repaired to the Elks' Hall, where a delightful lunch was daintily served.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The meeting was called to order by the President and after a prayer by the Chaplain, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" was beautifully sung by the quartette composed of Judge H. C. Howard, Dr. Frank Pithian, Mrs. Zeke Clay and Miss Flora Hill. The audience was then favored with "My Old Kentucky Home" sweetly sung by Mrs. Clay.

"War Reminiscences" were then given by Mrs. Gray Gather Swan and after the minutes of the morning session were read, reports of various committees, all of which showed that splendid work had been done.

One of these reports which created a great deal of interest was that of Mrs. Wm. Bateman, of Lexington, Chairman of the Morgan Monument Committee, whose energy has never flagged since her arduous, but pleasant, work began. It was decided to have an equestrian statue of John Morgan, with the inscription: "To John Hunt Morgan and His Men—Erected by the Daughters of the Confederacy of Kentucky."

Miss Barlow, of the Confederate Home Chapter, Pewee Valley, brought greetings from the old veterans.

The "Story of the Great Republic" was denounced by the Chapter, as unjust to the South. After a number of Chapter reports, the meeting adjourned to meet Thursday morning.

On Wednesday evening a reception was given by the Richard Hawes Chapter to the delegates, visiting daughters, veterans and their wives. The Elks' Hall was beautifully decorated in the U. D. C. colors, red and white, with Confederate flags of various sizes. Saxton's band furnished the music for the occasion. A grand march was participated in by the delegates, veterans and their wives. The Virginia reel was also danced. The State Officers and the president of the local chapter, Mrs. K. J. Neely, were in the receiving line. During the evening delightful refreshments, consisting of moulded cream and individual cakes in red and white were served. Frappe was dispensed by charming young ladies from a beautifully appointed table. The honored veterans in their suits of gray, the many handsome ladies in handsome and elaborate gowns all in the happiest mood, presented a scene never to be forgotten, by those who were fortunate enough to be present. There were 350 guests at the reception.

THURSDAY.

The meeting was called to order Thursday morning by the president, prayer being offered by the chaplain. Miss Barbee, of Danville, then charmingly rendered some dialect readings, after which Mrs. Owen Davis delighted all with a vocal solo.

The minutes of the Wednesday afternoon session were then read and adopted.

ed, and the unfinished business taken up.

This was followed by the election of State officers. Many candidates were nominated. The result, which was eminently satisfactory, was as follows: Mrs. W. G. Talbot, of Paris, President.

Mrs. M. B. Reynolds, of Covington, First Vice-President.

Mrs. Polk Prince, of Guthrie, Second Vice-President.

Mrs. Bond, of Lawrenceburg, Third Vice-President.

Mrs. John L. Woodbury, of Covington, Recording Secretary.

Miss Lucy Colville, of Paris, Corresponding Secretary.

Mrs. F. G. Allen, Sharpshurg, Treasurer.

Mrs. Carrie Durrett, of Springfield, Registrar.

Mrs. Gray G. Swan, of Murray, Historian.

Mrs. Jennie Catherwood Bean, of Winchester, Chaplain.

Miss Froman, of Ghent, was elected honorary President.

After the election of officers they adjourned to the Elks' building and partook of an elegant lunch.

The afternoon session opened with prayer by the Chaplain, which was followed by war reminiscences by Mrs. Swan, of Murray, which were very instructive. This was followed by a vocal duet, "Ise Goin' From the Cotton Fields," by Mrs. Fannie Belle Sutherland and Miss Julia O'Brien, which was so enthusiastically received that they were compelled to respond with "Massa in the Cold, Cold Ground."

After the reading of the minutes Mrs. M. B. Reynolds, President of the Children of the Confederacy, gave a most entertaining address. It was decided that an Educational Committee should be appointed.

After various discussions the place for the next meeting was taken up. Mrs. Swan extended an invitation to meet in Murray. Mrs. Caruthers insisted on Bardstown, and Mrs. Reynolds urged them to come to Covington. Bardstown was decided on as the place for the next meeting, with Murray a close second.

A short session was held after supper when the Convention adjourned to meet next year at Bardstown.

Valuable Collection of Coins. On exhibition in Shire & Fithian's big show window is one of the most valuable and complete set of United States silver half dollars in the country. They belong to Mr. R. J. Neely, of this city, who has for the past thirty years been saving them as one would be taken in through the general run of business. They are certainly a valuable curiosity.

They run from the very first coined in 1798 up to the present time, with the exception of the years 1798, 1799, 1800, 1804, 1816, there being no half dollars coined during these years. The most valuable one in the collection is the one coined in 1796.

INGELS—HAZELRIGG.

—Miss Gertrude Ingels, of Millersburg, and Mr. Oliver Kash Hazelrigg, of Plum, two prominent young people of this county, were united in marriage at the home of the officiating minister, Elder I. J. Spencer, in Lexington, on Wednesday afternoon, at 4 o'clock. The bride is a daughter of Mr. Frank Ingels, of Millersburg, and the groom a son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hazelrigg, of near North Middletown.

MILLER—SALLEE.

—Miss Emma Miller and Mr. Leroy Sallee, both of Lexington, were united in marriage by Judge Dundon, about 10:30 o'clock, Monday night, at his residence on Houston Avenue. The happy couple, accompanied by Miss Miller, a sister of the bride, and Mr. Woodard, drove through from Lexington in a carriage. Our accommodating County Clerk Paton and County Judge Dundon, had both retired for the night, but were glad to be disturbed in their efforts to accommodate the lovers.

The attendants above, Miss Florence Miller and Mr. Carl Woodward returned to Paris Wednesday evening in an automobile, and were made one by Judge Denis Dundon. Paris is getting to be a regular Gretna Green for the young people of Lexington.

—The wedding of Miss Rebecca Gay Holt and Mr. James Philomen Mulhin, will take place at the home of the bride on Mt. Airy Avenue, on the 16th of October, at 2 o'clock p. m.

DEATHS.

—Jos. Paton, aged 57 years, was found dead in his bed at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Ossian Edwards, on South Main street, Tuesday morning about 11 o'clock. Mr. Paton had retired between 11 and 12 o'clock, the previous night, and on his way home told a friend that he was a mighty sick man. Mr. Paton was a brother of the late Ed. D. Paton, and is survived by one brother, Ben G. Paton, and two sisters, Mrs. Edwards, and Mrs. Hudson, of Indianapolis, Ind., and one half-brother, H. T. Paton, of Lexington. The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, services at the grave by Rev. George W. Clarke.

—The ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Williams died at their home in Millersburg late yesterday afternoon, of diphtheria.

—Mrs. Mary C. Breckinridge, widow of General John Cabel Breckinridge, who was Vice President of the United States under President Buchanan and Confederate Secretary of War, died from a complication of diseases at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Anson Maltby, in Hedgewick Avenue, University Heights, New York City, Wednesday.

She was 82 years of age. She was the daughter of Clifton R. Burch, of Scott county, Kentucky, and was prominent in Southern society and charitable work. Her husband died in 1875. One son, Clifton R. Breckinridge, of Fort Smith, Ark., and two daughters, Mrs. Maltby, of New York, and Mrs. John A. Steele, of Midway, Ky., survive her.

—Mrs. Elizabeth T. Redmon, aged 72 years, died early yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Stella Whaley, in Chattanooga, Tenn. Mrs. Redmon was the widow of the late Chas. Redmon, of this county. She was the daughter of the late Judge Robt Trimble, of Flemingsburg. Mrs. Redmon had been making her home with her son, Chas. Redmon, at Lindsay, I. T., and had but recently gone to Chattanooga to visit her daughter. She is survived by three children, Cassel M. Redmon, of this county, Chas. Redmon, of Indian Territory, and Mrs. Stella Whaley, of Chattanooga, and two step-children, Mrs. H. O. James and John W. Redmon, of this city. The remains will arrive here this morning on the 7:50 train and will be taken to the residence of Mrs. H. O. James, on Pleasant street. Funeral arrangements will be made this morning.

A Beautiful Mausoleum Being Erected in Paris Cemetery.

Mrs. Anna E. Massie is having a beautiful mausoleum erected on the Massie lot in the Paris cemetery. The handsome sarcophagus is being constructed by Muldoon, of Louisville, and will be completed in about three weeks.

The foundation is of concrete six feet deep, fifteen feet and four inches long by nine feet two inches in length. It will be built of Bedford, Indiana, stone, the interior finished in Italian marble while the vestibule will have a mosaic floor.

The structure will be twelve feet high, the entrance facing the South. The doors to the entrance will be massive and made of Japanese wrought iron. The mausoleum will contain six catacombs and will cost three thousand dollars.

Before the work was commenced the bodies of Mr. Massie and son Wallace were removed and placed in the public vault. Upon the completion of the work the bodies will be consigned to their final resting place in the mausoleum.

For Family Use.

The Lion Beer is unquestionably the best beverage on the market for family use. Kept fresh all the time—either draught or bottle. Just as you prefer it. 11oct-2m T. F. BRANNON.
